

sunlight can only stream through the upper layer of the ocean, which is called the light zone. everything below this is perpetual darkness